Forgotten Books. Paperback. Condition: New. This item is printed on demand. 130 pages. Dimensions: 9.0in. x 6.0in. x 0.3in. Excerpt from Selections From Poems: With Biographical Sketches Mrs. Mary Field was born in 1833 in Niles, Michigan, when a few small settlements broke the wilderness between there and Detroit, nearly two hundred miles away. Her father, Nathaniel Bacon, then a studious young attorney, was later one of the first judges of the supreme court of Michigan. Her mother was of Scotch descent, and though she had grown up in her grandfathers luxurious home in New York, she was radiant with enthusiasm over the life of that far West. Mrs. Field (little Mary Hannah Bacon) was born in a log cabin, the first white child christened in southwestern Michigan. Her maternal grandfather, Joseph Sweetman, a Scotch Presbyterian minister, was called to the Fifth Avenue Brick Church of New York City, but he declined the call choosing the simple life in Charlton, New York. Mrs. Fields great-grandfather was Judge Edward Savage: on his old slate tombstone in New York the record is that he was for twenty-one years a member of the New York legislature, for forty years an elder in the Presbyterian church. His father was Captain John Savage, an adventurous sea captain and staunch patriot who served in the French and Indian wars. Though long wounded and going with a crutch, he led his men at the storming of Ticonderoga. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books.
